| Product Category | Data Distribution Service |
| Product/Service Description | OpenDDS is the leading open source implementation of the OMG (Object Management Group) Data Distribution Service (DDS) for Real-Time Systems specification. DDS defines a strongly typed publish-subscribe service for efficiently distributing application data between participants in a distributed application. OpenDDS leverages the ADAPTIVE Communication Environment (ACE) to provide portability and configurability across a wide variety of operating systems and deployment environments. OpenDDS was developed by OCI, working closely with key customers, users, and other researchers at various universities and other locations all over the world. |
