

Data Manipulation Language (DML)

Return to Glossary

A Data Manipulation Language (DML) is a family of computer languages including commands permitting users to manipulate data in a database. This manipulation involves inserting data into database tables, retrieving existing data, deleting data from existing tables and modifying existing data. DML is mostly incorporated in SQL databases.

Source: <https://www.techopedia.com/definition/1179/data-manipulation-language-dml>

From:

<https://www.omgwiki.org/dido/> - DIDO Wiki

Permanent link:

https://www.omgwiki.org/dido/doku.php?id=dido:public:ra:xapend:xapend.a_glossary:d:dml

Last update: 2021/10/04 07:59