

Executable File

Return to Glossary

Executable File is a file in a format that the computer can directly execute. Unlike source files, executable files cannot be read by humans. To transform a source file into an executable file, you need to pass it through a compiler or assembler.

Source: Executable File

From:

<https://www.omgwiki.org/dido/> - DIDO Wiki

Permanent link:

https://www.omgwiki.org/dido/doku.php?id=dido:public:ra:xapend:xapend.a_glossary:e:exec&rev=1605252498

Last update: 2020/11/13 02:28

